

Stainless-Steel Appliance Care

It is best to clean stainless-steel appliances with a damp, microfiber cloth with a mixture of dish soap and warm water. Club soda with warm water in a spray bottle is another great option. However, do not spray the appliance directly rather spray the microfiber cloth. Be sure to clean in the direction of the grain (most likely right to left, left to right), and follow up with a dry microfiber cloth. Regular box stores, hardware stores, and online also have stainless-steel appliance cleaners.
